TO INVESTIGATE JAP PROBLEM IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that the departments concerned were now considering the recommendations for personnel of the board of review to be constituted to investigate the Japanese problem in British Columbia and particularly to inquire into allegations of illegal entry of Japanese into Canada.

Hon. Ian MacKenzie, minister of defence, announced in Vancouver such a board was to be set up. On Feb. 17 in the House of Commons, Mr. Mackenzie King said the immigration, fisheries and external affairs departments and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and intelligence branch of the national defence department were co-operating in respect to laws affecting the entry and deportation of aliens.

Mr. Mackenzie King said that the departments he mentioned in the house had not yet concluded consideration of the names to be submitted for the board. When final recommendations are made, the board's constitution will be announced by the prime minister.

Attention was drawn by the prime minister to his speech in the house on Feb. 17 when he spoke in a debate on a measure concerning Japanese immigration to Canada. On this occasion he said:

"The member for New Westminster (Thomas Reid, Liberal) mentioned that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police had discovered many cases of illegal entry and that some 900 persons had been sent out of the country in consequence. "The officials of the immigration department, the fisheries department, the external affairs department, the Mounted Police, the intelligence branch of the defence department, have all been working together at Ottawa, with respect to regulations, and in British Columbia in actually seeking to enforce the laws and regulations and to prevent aliens from coming into the country surreptitiously and to send out those who have come in illegally."

"They have been doing so of late to a degree that has never been attempted heretofore. We intend to intensify that investigation into illegal entries into Canada, and I wish to assure the house that everything that the government can possibly do to prevent anything in the nature of illegal entries will be done."

Vancouver, B.C.—The Japanese problem in British Columbia will be thoroughly investigated by the federal government, Defence Minister Ian MacKenzie told interviewers here. The government proposes a board of review which will hear any persons claiming to have proof of information leading to such proof that Japanese have illegally entered the province, said the minister.

A special detail of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be assigned to collaborate with the board of review to carry out a thorough checkup.

Authorized To Sell Shares

But C.N.R. Owns All Trans-Canada Air Line Stock

Ottawa.—Capital stock of Trans-Canada Air Lines is still all owned by the Canadian National Railways. Hon. C. D. Howe, transport minister, told the House of Commons as his bill to amend the Trans-Canada Air Lines Act received third reading.

The act authorizes sale of shares in the company to other companies or individuals interested in aviation but so far no sales have been made. Mr. Howe said several other aviation companies had approached the government about the purchase of stock but none had come forward with a complete cash offer.

The bill will authorize the company to acquire Canadian shares in the proposed trans-Atlantic air line and to extend its operations outside Canada.

Defence Measures

Appropriations For Strengthening Life Line Of Empire

London.—The air ministry disclosed large appropriations for the defence of Hong Kong, Gibraltar and Egypt as it issued its unprecedented estimates for the coming fiscal year.

To strengthen defence of trade lines—the "life line of Empire"—in the Far East and through the Mediterranean, it asked parliament for £119,500 (£597,500) for the air defence of Hong Kong, crown colony of the south coast of China; £25,500 for the Royal Air Force stations in Egypt and £20,000 for Gibraltar.

Loan Business

Says Small Loan Company Refuge Of Average Family

Ottawa.—The small loan company is the refuge of the average family when it runs into financial trouble, Mr. Henderson, eminent United States economist, told the banking and commerce committee of the House of Commons in the course of an outline of the small loan business in United States.

The widest study yet made of the financing of the average family, undertaken by United States government, indicated 20 to 30 per cent. of all families are compelled to spend more in a year than their income. Medical attendance, legal needs, intermittent employment, refinancing of instalment purchases send these families to the small loan companies or to "loan sharks."

The committee is studying the possibility of drafting a national law for Canada to regulate interest rates on small loans. They held that 27 of the states had adopted a model small loan law drafted by the Russell Sage foundation of New York city, and it appeared to be working successfully.

Mr. Henderson argued a flat maximum rate of 2½ per cent. on unpaid balances might be a starting point for Canada. This would include all charges. If experience showed that the low rate on loans was considerably less than that in United States then this legal maximum might be reduced.

There was no proper comparison between rates on commercial and production loans by banks and rates on small loans to individuals, Mr. Henderson said. If small loan companies had to pay nothing for their money, the cost of making loans, investigating credit ratings and like expenses would require more than bank charges on loans. The mechanism of small loans made a comparison of them with loans by the chartered banks invalid.

The lowest legal maximum in the United States was 2½ per cent. Henderson said, except in Wisconsin, where it was 2½ per cent. on the first $100, two per cent. on the second $100 and one per cent. on any remainder. However, the Wisconsin law tended to monopoly, and had in fact, given 90 per cent. of the business to the Household Finance Corporation.

California Floods

Twenty-Six Reported Dead And Ten Thousand Homes Evacuated

Los Angeles.—Twenty-six were reported dead, 10,000 homes were evacuated and southern California was virtually isolated in flood waters of the heaviest rainstorm ever recorded in these parts.

Flood waters swirled through lowland areas of 50 counties from Ventura to San Juan Capistrano and from the Sierra Madre mountains to the sea.

Bridges were torn away. Homes were demolished by landslides. Automobiles were swept away in raging torrents. Airports were flooded. Thousands of homes were inundated.

Streets in Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Compton, Glendale, downtown Los Angeles and scores of other communities were converted into streams.

Ten of thousands of relief workers were sent into the field as the Los Angeles county major disaster emergency council went into action on its first mobilization.

The largest group perished in the collapse of a foot bridge across the Los Angeles river near Long Beach when 10 were reported swept to death in the Pacific ocean.

Five perished in collapse of homes in Los Angeles and cave-ins.

Three men, a woman and a boy were reported drowned by the fast waters in Lytle canyon, near San Bernardino. Two men were carried to their death in the swirling waters of the Santa Ana river when a trestle was carried away near San Juan Capistrano.

Peace officers ordered residents to evacuate their homes in the washes and low lands below a number of dams in the Sierra Madre mountains. More than 100,000 workers were sent to their homes when stores, plants and factories closed until the flood emergency is over.

Verdict Was Unusual

Ipswich, England.—A woman pedestrian injured in a road accident was ordered by a local court to pay £100 damages to the motorist whose car knocked her down. The motorist tried to avoid her, but could not, and the car struck a grass bank. He received a bad sprain, bruises and shock.

British Foreign Policy

Canada Kept Informed But Not Offering Any Opinion

Ottawa.—The Canadian government has been kept informed of recent statements by Prime Minister Chamberlain and Anthony Eden on British foreign policy, but has not offered any opinion with respect to such statements, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons in answer to a question by M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosemont-Biggar).

URGES OTTAWA TO ASSUME FULL COST OF RELIEF

Ottawa.—It would cost the Dominion treasury $100,000,000 a year to assume the full cost of relief in Canada, Hon. Norman Rogers, labor minister, told the House of Commons. The present federal share is $30,000,000.

The labor minister opposed a resolution of T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto-Broadview) urging the Dominion relieve the municipalities and provinces of relief costs. He said the change in policy could mean one of two things—an increased income tax or an increase sales tax, both at high levels now.

In proposing his resolution, Mr. Church broke new ground when he suggested the people of Canada vote at the next election on the question of abolishing provincial legislatures. There should be "a referendum at the next election giving the people an opportunity to say what they think about the duplication of government taxation in Canada," he said.

The state had a right to give every man a decent living, not a mere pittance, Mr. Woodsworth said. There was plenty of work to be done in Canada, housing for instance.

A higher income tax might provide the money, or an inheritance tax, he suggested. The opportunity to amass large fortunes is to-day granted by the state and there is no earthly reason why at least a portion of those great fortunes is not taken and used for the benefit of the less fortunate members of society.

There has been a decided improvement in the general relief situation in Canada, Mr. Rogers said. There were 75,000 on relief rolls in Nova Scotia in 1933 and to-day, 6,500. This remarkable improvement could not be duplicated across Canada but improvement was general.

The labor minister told Mr. Woodsworth there had been a decided improvement in his own province of Manitoba. Farm relief had almost disappeared there and the number on Winnipeg relief rolls represented 1,000 less families than a year ago.

Conditions in western Canada were not due to government policies but to serious climatic disturbances, a blight over the whole western country. How far Canada could find work for the unemployed would probably not be known until normal crops returned to the west.

Mr. Rogers said if the administration was left with the municipalities with the Dominion footing the bill, the vicious system would develop. Where one authority spent the money and another raised it difficulties and inefficiency were bound to exist.

Cost Of Seeding Operations
Saskatoon.—Farmers in Saskatchewan would require financing of their seeding operations to the extent of from $20,000,000 to $21,000,000 this spring, Dr. F. Hedley Auld, deputy minister of agriculture, estimated in an address before the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities held here. Original estimates had been set at from $23,000,000 to $27,000,000.

A MAN'S JOB

Sir George Broadbridge, Lord Mayor of London last year, has just revealed figures which prove the position of Chief Magistrate of the British Capital is no bed of roses. He entertained 36,000 guests at Mansion House, fulfilled 1,200 engagements, involving 1,100 speeches and attended nearly 500 dinners and social functions.

Tax On Banks

Manitoba Bill To Increase Taxation By 40 Per Cent.

Winnipeg.—A Manitoba government bill to increase taxation on banks by 40 per cent. was introduced in the legislature by Hon. Stuart Gerson, provincial treasurer.

At present there is a straight levy on bank main offices and branches throughout Manitoba. If there is a resident superintendent, the chief place of business pays $5,000; if not, $3,000. All other Winnipeg branches are taxed $750 and $400 for branches elsewhere in the province.

Last year the total collected from banks was $128,000. The new schedule would increase it to $175,000. The new taxation is provided in an amendment to the Corporation Tax Act and will increase each tax item by 40 per cent.

W. R. Sexsmith (Cons., Portage la Prairie) and G. F. Renouf (Cons., Swan River) objected to the form of the taxation, declaring it might have the effect of closing several branch banks.

The bill was given a first reading.

Joint Railway Management

Senate Resolution Urges Board Of Directors For Both Roads

Ottawa.—Joint management of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway by a board of 15 directors, as recommended in a senate resolution of 1925, was proposed in the Upper House by Senator C. P. Beaubien (Cons., Montreal).

Canada was the poorer to-day by practically $1,000,000,000 because action had not been taken to carry out the senate's 1925 resolution, which had been supported by both sides of the chamber, the Montreal senator said.

The resolution urged the board of directors be composed of five named by the C.P.R., five by the government and five chosen by the ten directors from capable business men.

News Reel Barred

"China 1937" Will Not Be Shown In British Columbia

Vancouver.—The British Columbia board of censors has barred "China 1937"—a newsworld depicting scenes of the Sino-Japanese conflict. At a meeting organized by the committee to obtain medical aid for China, Alfred Heathcote said it was intended to show the propaganda picture, but that it had been barred from the province.

B.C. Motor Accidents

Sharp Increase In Accidents And Fatalities In January

Victoria.—A sharp increase in automobile accidents and fatalities in British Columbia during January, despite the operation of the new 20 mile-an-hour speed limit in municipal areas, was announced by provincial traffic officials.

With 10 per cent. more cars on the roads, the total of accidents in January increased 17 per cent. from 351 to 411; the number of injured jumped 27 per cent. from 140 to 178, the deaths by 125 per cent. from four to nine, and the property damage done in crashes by 24 per cent. from $29,802 to $37,026.

The 30-mile speed limit, sponsored in the legislature last fall by Attorney-General Gordon Wismar, came into effect this year. Previously the province had no speed limit, depending on a "common danger" driving clause in the Motor Vehicles Act to curb speeding motorists.

Linked with the new legislation was provision for establishment of testing stations for drivers' licenses and vehicles expected to be in operation this summer.

Mr. Wismar said he planned a personal analysis of traffic records for other possible methods to cut down accidents.

GREAT BRITAIN MUST INCREASE ARMS PROGRAM

London.—Great Britain indicated the pace of the world arms race forced her to increase the vast five-year program she set last year to make the Empire strong on both sides of the globe.

A government white paper announced £1,500,000,000 ($7,500,000,000) earmarked a year ago would not be enough to build "unavoidable" defenses in view of the international situation and higher costs resulting from "continuous development of modern armaments."

The report said the government was convinced its own share in the rearmament struggle would "furnish a steady influence on the present state of international relations."

The white paper, following an announcement of a £20,000,000 increase for the Royal Air Force during the 1938-39 fiscal year, indicated increased figures for the royal navy would be made public when admiralty estimates are issued.

The report stated keels of new warships to be laid in the year ending March 31, 1939, would include two capital (battles) ships, one aircraft carrier, four large cruisers, three small cruisers and other smaller craft. In addition, 60 new vessels, totalling 130,000 tons, will be put into service during the year. No new destroyers are planned but a number are under construction.

The announcement made it clear actual cost of the five-year arms program would depend largely upon success of Prime Minister Chamberlain's "efforts to achieve peace agreement in international relations."

It forecast a £68,250,000 increase over last year in the 1938-39 costs of air, land and naval defenses. The total estimates for the coming year were £343,250,000, with an additional £8,500,000 for aid and precautions.

The report added frankly the peak would not be reached until 1939-40. "It must therefore be expected," it stated, "that even on the assumption that 1939, as now seems probable, will be the peak year for defence expenditure, the total expenditure on defence over the five years 1937-41 will exceed the sum of £1,500,000,000 ($7,500,000,000) mentioned in the white paper of Feb., 1937." It showed naval building had almost quadrupled since Jan. 1, 1935, rising from 139,345 tons then to 547,014 tons on Jan. 1, 1938.

The white paper did not mention possible enlargements of battle ships above 35,000 tons, limit fixed in the treaty between Great Britain, the United States and France. This question has been under discussion since 1928 when the United States refused to make known her naval building plans.

Dealing with the aid raid spectre, a pressing problem of home defence, it was announced there would be enough gas masks by the end of 1938 for the entire civil population of the British Isles.

Home air defences were boosted in the estimates to 123 squadrons—between 1,700 and 1,850 first line planes, six times more than before rearmament began.

An "air striking force" was included in estimates for the first time. This designation was given training squadrons of fast and medium bombers being delivered to the Royal Air Force in increasing numbers.

PROBE DISPOSAL OF GRAIN BY THE WHEAT BOARD

Ottawa.—Voluminous correspondence relating to the inquiry conducted last year by Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon of Regina into the grain trade was tabled in the House of Commons by Hon. W. D. Esler, trade minister.

Feature of the correspondence was the insistence by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, that the commissioner should investigate the balance sheets of the grain and elevator companies with a view to ascertaining the profits made by these concerns.

The magnitude of such a task was emphasized by Mr. Justice Turgeon and Hon. J. L. Ralston, chief commissioner counsel, and the matter referred to the commission's auditors, Price, Waterhouse and Company. The file on this particular subject concludes with a lengthy letter from this firm setting forth the complexities of the job and promising further details of what might be involved on receipt of "certain additional information."

E. E. Perley (Cons., Qu'Appelle) contributed to the interchange and was equally insistent with Mr. Bennett that the probe should delve into financial transactions of companies involved.

The matter had its genesis in a House of Commons debate a year ago when the Conservative leader asked that the commission should inquire into "the grain and elevator companies that acquire stocks of grain at the lake ports and their profits as was done in the case of the textile companies," and ascertain what happened in connection with the rest of the crop that was sold in connection with which there was a loss of $15,000,000, though there appears now to have been a profit of $8,000,000.

Mr. Bennett amplified this by requesting that the commission should investigate the financial transactions of companies that acquired from the grain board, presided over by Mr. Murray (James Murray, former wheat board chairman) the wheat that was at the lake ports and should ascertain who owned that wheat, the visible supply in Canada at the present time.

Replying to this, Mr. Justice Turgeon said the commission would investigate the various grain companies that acquired from the wheat board in Dec., 1935, "with particular reference to the allegation that the board protected speculative short interests." The commission would also investigate the wheat board's marketing methods abroad.

The commissioner felt that Mr. Bennett's request involved a procedure not contemplated by the inquiry, since it seemed to require a number of individuals to be named respecting parcels of wheat or futures which, up to July 31, 1936, aggregated upwards of 100,000 bushels and covered, even up to that date, a period of about 200 trading days.

"Such an inquiry is not contemplated," wrote Mr. Justice Turgeon, "any more than it is contemplated that the financial results to purchasers from the pools or the tender and selling agency would be gone into."

"I am wholly dissatisfied with the answer made by Mr. Justice Turgeon, and you may so inform him," wrote Mr. Bennett in reply. "If he could deal with the balance sheets of the textile companies as he has, certainly could deal with the balance sheets of the elevator and other grain companies so as to show what, if any, profit was made by them through the acquisition of grain from the wheat board, assuming that the grain so acquired has since been disposed of." (Mr. Justice Turgeon was also chairman of the textile inquiry.)

Japs Fear Air Raids

Danger Seen In War Closely Packed Cities When War Comes

Tokyo.—Japan's fear of air raids on her closely-packed cities in the "next war" was reflected in excited parliamentary debate over the government's drastic national mobilization bill.

Defending the measure, which parliament members have attacked as dictatorial and Fascist, Major-General Isamu Yokoyama said that because of the danger of air raids the law was necessary as an emergency instrument through which the nation instantly could be placed on a war footing.

More than 200 girls at a Surrey factory went on strike because the manager was "sarcastic." They got a new manager.

JAPAN HAS A TASTE OF HER OWN MEDICINE

"For the first time in history, Japanese territory underwent an aerial bombardment when Chinese planes flew from Canton, China, and dropped bombs on the Japanese island of Formosa. The result was rather terrifying for the inhabitants of Taihoku, and the people of Tokio, also were perturbed when reports stated that the planes were en route to Japan to continue the rain of destruction. The map above shows the situation of Formosa in relation to South China."

CANADIAN FISH

STEAKS IN MILK

Mrs. Fisher suggests for dinner: Canadian Fish Steaks in Milk. Wipe steaks of any desired kind of Canadian fish, or fillets, cut into serving portions, with a damp cloth, wring out in cold salted water, sprinkle them with salt, pepper and flour, place them in a greased baking pan and cover with milk. Cook in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) till the fish has "set." Having sliced two medium-sized onions, saute them in butter or fat until they are browned and then place the steaks on each piece of fish. Return the dish to the oven until the bacon is cooked. Two pounds of fillets will serve six people. If desired, mushrooms may be placed around the steaks of fish and baked with them.

Canadian Fish Foods are comparable to meats in nourishment, and are especially easy of digestion.

The department of mines and technical education of British Columbia are offering free night school classes in prospecting. The course includes practical geology, mining and considerable practice in recognizing rocks and minerals. Just too bad that something similar could not have been adopted by the Aberhart government.

Aberhart doesn't like the idea of folks from, not only other parts of Alberta, but from outside, butting in to the East Edmonton by-election campaign. Yet he announced some time ago that they were seeing to it that every seat in Saskatchewan would be contested by Social Crediters, probably sent there from Alberta. "Consistency, thou art a jewel!"

The late C.P.R. engineer, George William Morrison, who passed away at Field, B.C., on Sunday, was practically a life-long friend of our well known and highly esteemed citizen, James F. Smith, proprietor of the Cosmopolitan hotel. Mr. Morrison was preparing his engine for a run from Field to Stephen when he was stricken with a heart attack and died instantly. He leaves his wife and two sisters, Mrs. K. Johnston, of Lethbridge, and Mrs. Mary Burns, of Spokane.

The thirty-ninth annual general meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy is to be held at the Royal York hotel in Toronto on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next, March 14-15-16. Hon. Michael Dwyer, president, will preside at the sessions. Alberta is to be represented as follows: Northern Alberta branch—J. B. Starky, chairman; M. J. Hilton, secretary. Rocky Mountain branch—William Stevenson, chairman; B. L. Thorne, secretary. Crown West Pass section—J. R. Smith, secretary. J. A. Brueset, general manager of the West Canadian Collieries Limited, Blairmore and Bellevue, is a member of the Alberta council.

The history of curling from its earliest known dates was traced by D. G. Mackenzie, Calgary barrister and formerly of Blairmore, in addressing the Knights of the Round Table at a banquet in Calgary on Tuesday.

One of the three long-term prisoners who escaped from the Stony Mountain penitentiary the early part of the week was found hiding in a bush about a mile and a half from the pen. He had been injured in the getaway, and was unable to follow his confederates.

It must have been laughable to the house at Ottawa to hear our Blackmore repeating the old cut and dried dope on the theory of providing $25 a month for everyone fortunate enough to be a native of or resident of Canada. They could just sit back there and learn and learn, and learn absolutely nothing from the great would-be prophet of Major Douglas or his Abie.

Instead of considering raising their own salaries, members of the legislature would be more decently engaged in attempting reductions. They were elected on a compassionate platform, in which their every thought was to lighten the cost of living for "poor suffering people." How can they explain their reverse actions?—Ex.

"A Westerner looks about" is the title of a series of broadcasts being given by G. G. Coote, ex-M.L.A. for this federal riding, the first of which was on the air last night at 5:45. In his talks Mr. Coote tells anecdotes of life and work on prairie farms, mingled with stories of the trials and accomplishments of western farmers during the last two decades.

Rev. Hubert Bosomworth, M.A., pastor of the United church at Airside, died in a Calgary hospital on Saturday, after a long illness, at the age of 51. Mr. Bosomworth was born in Yorkshire, England. He is survived by his wife and two sons. A third son died in England in 1927. Remains were laid to rest at Calgary on Tuesday afternoon.

In some parts of the world the author of a document such as Bulletin 22, issued by the Social Credit board over the signature of one Alnutt, would be placed up against a wall and shot. The bulletin constitutes a flout upon the adult population of Alberta, when it suggests that rape, murder, etc., is rampant in this fair province. No one with any sense could ever concoct such ideas.

Trail Smoke Eaters again won the championship of British Columbia, taking three straight from the Kimberley Dynamiters. The coast league forfeited to the winners of the interior league. Taking to Premier Aberhart's new-old motto, the Smoke Eaters will "press on." Of course, there's a vast difference, for the hockey boys really intend to accomplish something.

There is not enough money in the provincial treasury to pay outstanding savings certificates, but sufficient to boost indemnities; not enough to pay full interest on Alberta bonds, but enough to pay $100,000 for special Social Credit salaries and allowances; not enough to prevent chiselling on municipalities and provincial relief grants, but enough to pay the heaviest cabinet ministers' travelling expenses in Alberta's history—Lethbridge Herald.

Bulletin No. 22, issued by the Social Credit Board, under the supervision of either the government of Alberta, the premier or Major Douglas (most likely the latter) should be published—broadspread throughout this province, as the greatest eye-opener possible as to just what is being accomplished by that portion of the government which required the publication of correct information. Never in the history of this province has anything been published that was so blasphemous to the general public. As far as we know, but two papers in Alberta have published the contents of that bulletin, the Nanton News and the Calgary Albertan.

Who Owns the Assets of Life Insurance Companies?

Answer.—These assets are jointly owned by more than 3,500,000 policyholders—men and women who constitute one-third of Canada's population.

Question.—What is the average share of each policyholder in these assets?

Answer.—About $571. This shows that Life Insurance assets are made up of the savings of millions of thrifty men and women.

Q.—What is the nature of Life Insurance funds?

A.—They are trust funds held by the Life Insurance companies to pay policy claims as they fall due.

Q.—How are these funds invested?

A.—In loans to governments and municipalities—for building homes and schools—for improving farms—for constructing good roads and transportation systems—for developing industries and public utilities.

Q.—To what extent does Alberta share in such investments?

A.—More than Ninety Million Dollars of Life Insurance funds are invested in this Province.

This is the third of a series of messages, sponsored by Life Insurance Companies operating in Canada. The fourth, to appear in two weeks' time, will discuss Life Insurance investments.

A Piece of Cloth

CLOTH is very old. It is as old as man-made fire or man-made shelters. It is older than pottery. No matter how far back into mankind's earliest beginnings the professors of history may search, they find that cloth is even older than history.

ALL DOWN THE CENTURIES, people the world over have spun and woven cloth. They made it in China, in the Nile Valley, in ancient Greece. The Indians of our continent produced very good cotton and woollen cloth.

TODAY in Canada we make excellent cloth. The textile industry furnishes employment to one out of every five industrial workers in this country. In 2,234 textile establishments, 115,000 men and women have steady jobs, year in and year out, winters as well as summers. The goods that they make form 13 per cent of our total industrial production.

DOMINION TEXTILE COMPANY has been making cloth since the early part of this century. A Canadian company, financed by Canadian money, employing Canadians in six towns of Quebec province, this company feels that the cloth which it weaves is the equal of any produced in the long history of this ancient art.

Australia to Invite Immigrants

Aiming At Objective Of 7,000 Britons A Year

Steady decline in Australia's British population since 1920 and a concurrent influx of aliens has prompted the federal government to re-open the question of selected immigration.

Prime Minister Joseph Lyons has already announced the commonwealth cabinet has been devoting its attention to a scheme understood to provide for assisted passages for special types of immigrants.

The ministry is reported to be aiming at the objective of 7,000 Britons a year, giving precedence to domestic, youths for the land and skilled artisans, of whom there is an acute shortage in Australia. It is tentatively proposed to inaugurate the plan early in 1939.

FLIN FLON

"The Story of Its Finding and Position Today"

By PRATT KUHN

Here's A Fish Story!

Talking of sturgeon, I saw a 150-pounder and many weighing 40, 50, 60 pounds, when cleaned and with heads and tails off. Just below the dam at Island Falls I saw an Indian, Bogash, by name, make three casts with a 30-foot line baited with a spoon and without a pause had in a six to eight pound jackfish each time. Up there they feed this fish to their dogs.

In the store at Island Falls in a quick survey I saw Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, Bayer's Aspirin, Ipana Tooth Paste, Hind's Honey and All-mond Cream sticking out in a full line of proprietaries.

Familiar, too, was Ovaltine, Postum, Oxo, Brasso, Silvo Keen's Mustard, Life Savers, Nabok Coffee and Spices, Melrose Orange Pekoe, Tiny Tea, Tins, Snag, Edwardsburg Silver Gloss, Old Dutch Lifebuoy Soap, Palm Olive Soap, Gillett's Eye, Chore Girl copper sponges. All tobaccos and cigarettes, including Buckingham, Winchester, Sweet Caporal, Women's Super Silk Hosiery, Men's Virella Socks.

One of the outstanding features of Island Falls, (the town, about one mile from the power plant) is the Community Hall built by the men. It's so large that it has an indoor tennis court, full size, on hard wood floor and well heated for winter by electricity. There are perhaps only five or six indoor tennis courts in all Canada, yet here, 700 miles north of Winnipeg, they have a dandy.

It also has a Brunswick-Balke bowling alley, a talkie movie theatre showing perhaps 160, where up-to-date films are shown twice weekly free, secured on a rental basis, from somewhere East. I know these years of film are heavy because I helped handle them on portages on their return to Flin.

There is a travelling book library, also a resident one in the building, a billiard table, and a billiard room. The summer cottages, sidewalks were laid down and as there is no transportation except by shank's mare, the in-between homes are being graded for gardens and flowers which thrive marvelously.

Radios are universal but programmes are best received on short wave.

There are only two wood stoves for cooking in the town—all homes being electrically equipped.

Market For Poultry

Canada Supplies All Live Birds United States Can Use

Canada has been practically the sole supplier of live turkeys to the United States for a number of years past, although the trade steadily declined from the peak year of 1931 and was almost negligible in 1933, writes C. H. West, assistant Canadian trade commissioner, New York to the Commercial Intelligence Journal. Since the latter year there has been an improvement, imports in 1936 of 25,191 pounds valued at $4,888, being four times those of the preceding year. The Dominion also supplied the bulk of the United States imports of live poultry other than turkeys. Imports of chickens, ducks, geese and guinea fow from Canada in 1936 amounted to 1,062,459 pounds out of a total of 1,200,779 pounds. Two of the principal states to which all types of live poultry are shipped from Canada are Maine and New Hampshire. Live turkeys are imported in largest volume across the Dakota boundary, and other live poultry into the state of Washington.

A Multi-Racial Nation

Switzerland Has Added Fourth Language To Official List

Already possessed of three official languages, Switzerland has just added a fourth.

German is spoken by about 75 per cent of the Swiss people and predominates in 16 of their 22 cantons.

About 20 per cent speak French, which predominates in four cantons, and about 4 per cent, speak Italian, which predominates in one canton.

The newly recognized official language is Romansh, an Italian dialect, which is spoken by not more than one per cent of the Swiss people and only in part of Grisons canton.

The multi-racial Swiss nation clearly believes in equality and fair play even for minorities, a virtue that is not apparent, to the same extent, among some of its more numerous neighbors.

The word Switzerland connotes to many people only the Alps, Swiss cheese and watches, a fact that does not do justice to the 4,000,000 upstanding, self-reliant people who live on its 15,000 square miles of mountains and valleys and defend a citadel with fascism and communism—Detroit Free Press.

Is Kept Well-Informed

Premier Chamberlain Knows What Goes On Behind Scenes

The swiftness with which the gullotine fell on the slender neck of Secretary Eden would seem to suggest that Premier Chamberlain had reason to fear that "war" was very near. His sources of information are unimpaired in the Empire. He may have seen shadows of coming minister manoeuvres which would have literally forced war on the proud British people. There are plenty of such possibilities.

Eden's decision to resign, the destruction of our vast interest in Shanghai but not to an attack on Hong Kong. We can negotiate about Spain but not about Egypt. If the Fascist Powers once accepted the settled idea that Great Britain was irreconcilable and immovable on what they regard as vital issues, they might at any moment think the occasion ripe for a show-down before the Empire crumbles.

They must be sorely tempted to-day to press their advantage.—Montreal Star.

Harry Pearson, Sydney, N.S.W., can call wild birds to his side from more than 50 yards away. Wagtails, sparrows and peewits answer his soft whistle daily in the Sydney botanic gardens.

Gardening

In few other things does a little preliminary planning yield such tangible returns as in gardening. It is possible to construct a house without a blue print, though the job will usually be regretted. Gardens, too, can be created in this fashion but the results are apt to be confused and the final results are not what the hobby, pastime, work or whatever gardening is called, as well as add very materially to its real value.

Now, while the earth is still dormant, or at least too wet or too cold to indulge in any but the hardest kind of planning, is the time to begin these plans. All that is necessary is a pencil and paper, a seed catalogue, and possibly a Government bulletin of two.

For the permanent sort of gardening, that is the kind using perennial flowers, shrubs, trees, grasses and other things that grow for years, some preliminary planning is absolutely essential. True, most Canadian garden authorities advocate informal planting for the average home surroundings, but even in this informality some previous notion of planning is desirable.

Otherwise, there are going to be tiny shrubs hidden by large ones, grasses going to be too shaded by other plants and a host of other permanent things.

Even in the vegetable patch, it is a splendid idea, so the horticulturists state, to plot the whole patch roughly to scale, and then lay out the rows so that tall corn, stalked tomatoes and similar things have plenty of room each way, but to beans, carrots and beets do not get more than from 15 to 24 inches between the rows.

Early spring is generally considered the most favourable season for planting nursery stock. Under the latter heading comes a wide variety of plants, including rose bushes, shrubs, fruit and ornamental trees, perennial flower plants, vines, raspberry plants, asparagus, strawberry plants and a host of other permanent things.

In purchasing such material authorities emphasize the importance of securing fresh stock from a reliable source, and that the plants should be pliable and moist and if there is any upper growth, as in the case of shrubs and trees, there should be evidence of live green buds.

A Simple Explanation
Hens came after the laying of an egg because their wild ancestors, the jungle fowls, did it before them, and the jungle fowls did it because, after taking time out for laying eggs, it was necessary for the hens to signal their whereabouts to the rest of the wandering flock.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY

Golden text: Give ye them to eat.

Mark 8:37.

Lesson: Mark 6:33-44.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 55:1, 2, 5-10.

Explanations And Comments

The Feeding of the Multitudes, Mark 6:33-44. When Jesus saw the crowd milling about him he crowded with, not knowing quite why they had come nor what they desired, he had compassion on them, for they seemed to him like sheep without a shepherd. His concern for them was a misgiving of interest in their whole life and a desire to give them immediate help. The first thing he did, as Mark tells us, was to teach them, and the second thing was to feed them. Hence in each place this incident is noted to him.

An especially striking incident in our story is Jesus' asking divine aid, that is, asking God to multiply the loaves and fishes. "For the most part, folks are still like that." His concern for them was a misgiving of interest in their whole life and a desire to give them immediate help. The first thing he did, as Mark tells us, was to teach them, and the second thing was to feed them. Hence in each place this incident is noted to him.

How did Jesus feed them? We do not know. Using the everyday means at hand and the disciples as his assistants, Jesus fed the multitude, and in so doing gave them an object lesson in practical service. When all had eaten there remained twelve baskets full of the broken pieces and of the fish.

"Jesus gave that meal to the multitudes to teach his followers through all ages, that, unless they cared for men's bodily wants, they would never touch the moral and spiritual in them." (J. G. Greenough).

New Variety Of Potatoes

Measles Has Shallow Eyes And Uniformly Smooth Surface

Here's a flash for baked potato lovers: A new variety, which its developers predict may surpass the famous cobler in popularity in some sections, has been introduced by the University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station.

It is the "Measaba," described by its breeders, Drs. F. A. Krentz and A. G. Tobias, as "decidedly superior to the cobler for market purposes and of great appeal to the housewife" because of its shallow eyes and uniformly smooth surface. Those characteristics make possible easy peeling without much loss of waste.

The Measaba was developed from a cross made 12 years ago between the Russet Rural and a seedling obtained from the Early Ohio variety. It does especially well on peat soils, the University Farm horticulturists said, but tests indicated it may have a wide adaptation.

A doctor received a note which read as follows: "Please call and see my husband. It's his head. He's had it off and on all yesterday, and to-day he's sitting with it in his hands between his knees."

2-WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

The speed with which "Aspirin" tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing, and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three "Aspirin" tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back. This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain ceases promptly; rawness is relieved. And you will say it is remarkable. And the few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gurgles" and strong medicines.

"Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Pensioner Who Had Three Days' Service In Army Draws $35,000.

Hon. C. G. Power, pension minister, told the House of Commons of a pension case that cost the treasury $35,000.

The man had three days service in the Canadian army after being dismissed from the American army because of tuberculosis.

From 1917 until his death a comparatively short time ago, the man received pay and allowances which totalled $35,000.

"And," continued, the minister, "we did not have a single day in all these years when we did not receive complaints about his pay and allowances."

The man not only complained himself, but he enlisted the assistance of ex-soldier organizations.

Help Buffalo Inventor To Keep Within Speed Limit

When the automobile of Palmerston La. Fulce, Buffalo inventor, exceeds a speed of 30 miles an hour, a buzzer warns him. He says it helps him to obey the law. The device, attached to his speedometer, also switches on lights on the front and rear of his car when it attains any speed set as a maximum. This, it was hoped, would notify traffic police that the driver was speeding.

"I'll never be the same, m'lud," said Crump.

"Nonsense. What happened to you?"

"Elaine, m'lud, she came back." "Came back?"

"Yes, m'lud. I left her dead, as dead as Napoleon. I closed her eyes. Then she vanished. I thought Stoad had taken her away—for a joke—but he denied it. A few minutes ago I went into my room to get a handkerchief, and there she was! Her eyes were open and she was waging her tail!"

"But they don't, you know," said the earl. "Dead dogs, I mean."

"She did," insisted Crump.

"You're a liar, m'lud," said Crump, "and you're asking me to believe it."

"You know that I am never in the least inebriated, except, perhaps at Christmas," said Crump.

"That's so," admitted the earl. "I must be a miracle then. Let's investigate it."

An expeditionary force, headed by the earl, with Lady Rosa and Ernest close behind him, and Crump and Mrs. Featherby forming a tremendous rear-guard, pushed into Crump's room, which was just off his pantry.

"You're right, Crump," said the earl. "Her eyes are open and she is wagging her tail."

He stopped a dozen feet from where the dog lay in her basket-bed by the fire-place.

"Nice Elaine. Good doggy," he said. She continued to gaze at them fixedly, the while wagging her tail.

"Well," said the earl, "I wasn't afraid of her when she was alive so I suppose I shouldn't be afraid of her ghost. I am, though," he added. Cautionously he edged nearer to Elaine.

"Nice ghostie, nice ghostie," he said, and stretching out his hand he patted Elaine's ebony muzzle.

"Well," said the earl, "I wasn't afraid of her when she was alive so I suppose I shouldn't be afraid of her ghost. I am, though," he added. Cautionously he edged nearer to Elaine.

"Nice ghostie, nice ghostie," he said, and stretching out his hand he patted Elaine's ebony muzzle.

her tail for twelve minutes if you wind her up."

"She's wonderful, sir, simply wonderful," said Crump. "Her face was wreathed in beams now. 'I'm most grateful to you, sir.'"

"And I," said the earl, "am hungry. Shall we finish our dinner before somebody else begins to wag and bark?"

They returned to the dining room.

In the kitchen Crump was pouring the after-dinner coffee into Spode cups.

"As I remarked, my dear Sylvia, I am considered an excellent judge of men," he said. "A good butler must be. And I say this—he waggled a finger at her to drive home his point—"Mr. Bingley may be a millionaire or he may be a tramp; but millionaire or tramp, American or Eakino, in the best sense of the word, he's a gentleman. And now will you excuse me while I go to my room and wind up Elaine?"

CHAPTER VII.

After dinner they had a musical evening. Lady Rosa, at Ernest's request, sang "Cock-a-doodle-Do!" "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," and "Love's Old Sweet Song."

The earl, at nobody's request, attacked, with a ready voice, "Uncle Tom Cobley and All," though handicapped by the fact that he was sure of neither the words nor the tune. Ernest, by popular demand, rendered "Listen to the Mocking Bird" (with variations) on his harmonica.

"What a talent! What you are, Ernest," remarked the earl. "You're not only musical but you stuff a super pug."

"Thank you, sir."

"It was an extremely thoughtful thing to do," said Lady Rosa. "Neither Father nor I thought of doing it, and we know, far better than you could have, how much Elaine meant to Crump."

"It was nothing," murmured Ernest, "nothing at all."

"And now, Ernest," said the earl, "I'm going to ask you to do something for me."

"I'll be glad to, sir. What do you wish?"

"My sister Julia," replied the earl. "Oh, horribly sorry. That stuffed out. Shouldn't want her attired after. Shouldn't know where to put her if she were. And she's not a bad old widow if you don't have to see much of her."

"Ernest is still wondering what you want of him," his daughter reminded the earl.

"He must do," said Lady Rosa. "Ernest, the fact is I should like to borrow the use of the castle for two days and nights."

"Of course you may," said Ernest. "When do you want to leave?"

"But I don't want you to leave," said the earl. "I want you to stay and help me find the beanfeast. Will you?"

"Glad to," said Ernest, anxious to oblige, but wholly in the dark as to the nature of the beanfeast.

"Ta," said the earl. "You can always count on a Bingley to do the right thing, as King George the Third remarked when Lucius Bingley married the baroness."

"The idea Father is trying to convey in his obscure way is that we'd like to hold the annual Hunt Ball of the Pennington Hounds here a fortnight from tonight," Lady Rosa said.

"You see," enlarged the earl, "it's the county's biggest bingle, and it's always been held here since men began to chase foxes in these parts. We sleep some of the hunting party the night before the hunt, and the next night all the lads and lassies gather in their pink coats and best pinfaires for a bit of innocent merriment. We contribute the castle and the hunt members supply the eatables, drinkables and music, and a good time is had by all, except the fox."

"I'll be very pleased to donate the use of the castle," said Ernest.

"You'll be a very poor affair, my boy. Royalty itself has ridden with the Pennington pack and got itself gently sozzled at the ball. There'll be more peers of the realm about than you can shake a stick at, if you are in the habit of shaking a stick at peers."

"I'm not, laughed Ernest. "I'll stay out of sight in my tower."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," returned the earl. "I want to exhibit you. You're by way of being a celebrity, you know."

"I'm not, laughed Ernest. "I'll stay out of sight in my tower."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," returned the earl. "I want to exhibit you. You're by way of being a celebrity, you know."

has taken for the season." It also told him society was watching, with interest, his antics. Then the type sang to blur before his eyes, and the thought, "It's the father back home in Iowa, see this, I'm sunk" slipped at his cerebrum.

"I didn't know my picture had been taken," he said. "One doesn't these days," said the earl. "Our vaunted English respect for privacy has joined the dodo in the limbo of extinct institutions. I always battle in the dark lest there be a candid camera lurking in the wood-work to snap me spooning. Why, once one of the toiles took me whilst eating spaghetti in Soho, and a pretty sight I was, too."

"Has there been much of this sort of thing?" asked Ernest. "Publicity about me, I mean."

"I've known it," said the earl. "I've known I had something to show you. I've cuttings about you from all the London papers. Riots of fancy some of them are, too. How they get such facts I can't think."

"What facts?"

"About how you spent a night in the dungeon for fun, and how you don't believe in clothes, and how you yodel—but wait, I'll get the cuttings."

"Never mind, thank you," said Ernest, with mounting misery.

"You're used to that sort of tosh, I daresay," said the earl. "Wish I knew how those ferrets find out what you're up to."

"A bit over his beer in the local pub, and a spy under the table jots it down on his cuff."

"Father," said Lady Rosa, "you didn't say any chance, do a spot of gossiping yourself when you were up in London, did you?"

1938 Plans Call For Greater Use Of Newspapers And Magazines To Publish Long List Of Food Products

Long one of Canada's largest users of advertising space in newspapers and magazines, General Foods Limited, are planning a substantial increase in lineages for these media in 1938, according to R. K. McIntosh, Vice-president.

"In completing our advertising plans for 1938 we are again recognizing the proven worth of newspapers and magazines in bringing the merits of our products to the attention of the public," said Mr. McIntosh. Maxwell House Coffee, Swans Down Cake Flour, Calumet Baking Powder, Jell-O Ice Cream Powder, Postum Grape-Nuts, Post's Bran Flakes, Certo, "Grape-Nuts" Flakes and Sanka Coffee are among the General Foods products which will receive wider advertising in publications during 1938.

GIRLS WHO HAVE NO BOY FRIENDS

Quick Easy Way To Get Charm

Girls who don't attract by friends wonder why. Beautiful, perfect features are not the reason. Cheapest and loveliest women were often ugly. Have nice skin, plenty of animation, and watch out for your figure. You'll be surprised how popular you are. So make sure you have perfect complexion—no life-line figure slipping, and don't realize it. Take "Fruit-A-Tives" and you'll soon be amazed how different and how attractive you become. It purifies your blood, makes skin soft, pores open, gets rid of pimples and poisons, gives you new energy, prevents flabby tissue from forming. "Fruit-A-Tives" gives you new charm, so, so.

Motors In Britain

Total Of Three Million Cars Is Being Approached

Every day during the past year an average of 500 additional motor vehicles have been put into service on the roads of Great Britain. The latest figures of the Ministry of Transport show that a total of three million is being approached, which prompts the question: What is saturation point? When will it be reached?

Lord Nuffield recently put the figure at 10 millions; and insofar as this roughly represents a car for every family, the Ministry accepts it as a definite, though improbable, maximum. Mr. Burgin, the Minister of Transport, has stated that if the present rate of increase is maintained—last year was 189,000, or 6½ per cent—the present total will be doubled in 15 years. Beyond that no one is prepared to go, since so many unknown factors are involved.

When it comes to the problems attendant upon such an enormous increase, there are, of course, divergencies of expert opinion. The Ministry maintain that traffic congestion is severe only in big towns, and point to the country's total road mileage of 178,500, which per square mile (2.68) is the highest in the world—London Observer.

There is no charge at all—just write to the address above and say "Jimmy Chew" and the booklet will be sent to you before the supply is exhausted.

Cannot Always Choose

Modern War Bombs Often Fly Wide Of Objective

It is certain that neither side in a modern war can choose its objectives so exactly as to ensure a reasonable safety to civilian life. A bomber may set out to destroy a factory on the edge of a populous town, but the tumult of the attack, which shells bursting round him and defending planes rising in the air, it is more than likely that the pilot will either miss his aim or cast his bombs at random and take the lives of harmless citizens. But this is hardly to hit military objectives, everything goes to show that when the rebels began the present wave of bombing they had no intention of ever trying.

The Bible Institute is about the only institution in Alberta that has a provincial government.

What glorious opportunities lay before the Alberta cabinet when it comes to borrowing money!

Current expenditures in Alberta are more than those of any government in Alberta's history, says an exchange.

The wolves go after a weakened deer in about the same manner that Social Crediters will go after Saskatchewan's weakest spots.

It is easy to identify the owner of the car. He is the one who, after you pull the door shut, always opens it again and slams it harder.

The Alberta government has offered to yield to the federal government its jurisdiction over the small loan business.

Some speeches from the throne nowadays are so small they could stand publication in mimeograph sheets.

Part of the main floor of the old Alberta hotel building is being used by the Crown's Nest Pass Motors as storage for used cars.

The latest good news is that Social Crediters in London are silent. 'Twould be a very nice thing, too, if the "yap-yap" in Alberta would cease.

Down in Saskatchewan they are discussing different Fallow treatment. Probably a move in that direction in Alberta would be in order, too!

Some of the Alberta farmers are getting fed up with the amount of "fertilizer" being wasted from pulpits or platforms in Calgary and Edmonton on Sundays.

A gossip is one who talks to you about others. A bore is in the same class. But a brilliant conversationalist is one who talks to you about yourself.

Premier Angus Macdonald announced in the Nova Scotia legislature Tuesday a net revenue surplus of $62,389 for the fiscal year ended November 30th last.

Several well known authors have started in to compile a work in huge book form, to be entitled: "What Alberhart and his government did not do for Albertans."

Mr. Blackmore may tell 'em down in Ottawa that the whole dominion of Alberta is Social Credit crazy—and there'd be just one word of truth in that.

Folks are wondering why the members of the Alberta government are becoming so interested in the milk business. Well, for one thing, they've got to make sure of the cream!

Resolutions of regret were extended to a B.C. bank manager, who was being transferred to Alberta, and particularly because he was heading for the penitentiary town of Prince Albert. But now, with recent turn of events, it might be a pleasant change.

The remains of the late Steve Rosio were laid to rest at Bellevue on Sunday afternoon last. The funeral was very largely attended. Beside his widow and three children, the late Mr. Rosio is survived by his aged mother in Italy and a brother and sister residing at Canmore.

G. G. Cooke, of Nanton, director of the Alberta Wheat Pool for the Claresholm district, and also a director of the Bank of Canada, was appointed temporary secretary to the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture at the annual meeting held recently in Ottawa.

Jimmy Bradnock picks Farr to win the bout tonight against Max Baer.

Aberhart availed of the opportunity on Sunday night last to stage one of his "Amos and Andy" shows.

There never was greater cause for resignation of a government, than exists in Alberta today.

Powell and Unwin will likely be at home to their particular friends at the Fort Saskatchewan jail for several weeks yet.

An exchange questions: "If every girl followed the straight and narrow, where would the brassiere manufacturers be?"

And now Able is asking the people of Alberta for the privilege of attending meetings. He has declined to respond to many invitations.

LITTLE BANKERS AND BIG BANKS

(A true story)

Bunny's father gets his pay cheque twice monthly, and Bunny's mother deposits it in one of the branches of The Royal Bank. Along with his mother trots four-year-old Bunny with a little iron bank tucked under his arm, into which he carefully put his savings.

While his mother is waiting for her book the bank manager lifts Bunny on to the counter, opens his book, and counts his money, and then enters the amount in Bunny's savings bank book.

To Bunny these semi-monthly visits are but pleasant interludes in the active days of childhood; but to his father they have deep significance, for he sees, in the light of his own mature experience, the cultivation of a habit of thrift that will prove of great value to the boy as the years go on.
